

From: Joseph Tiong
Sent: Thursday, 26 March 2015 6:02 PM
To: medboardconsultation
Subject: How about Non medical practitioners.

Dear Sir,

There are currently more NON Medical practitioners, eg Nurses and beauticians doing fillers botox and Cosmetic laser procedures than medically trained doctors.

Often, the doctors provided the S8 medication (Botox and Fillers) with an online consultations. Then the nurses injected them at a distant sites.

In return, the NURSES referred clients back to these practitioners for other procedures. .

To me, this is a form of kick-back .

Similarly, such practice is widespread in LASER Distribution company where Laser company asking non qualified kids beauticians, who some of them don't even have school certificate qualification, to do the procedures. Want to know how they work ???? simply go around major shopping Centre , [REDACTED] and you may see the answer.

The [REDACTED] has the fund to do the advertisement as they are NOT legally bound with advertisement Code and then get enquiries then refer to these clinic .

It is a form of financial inducement.

This certainly need to be investigated.

Dr Joseph Tiong.