Dear Medical Board of Australia,

You have no right to compel doctors to comply with a patient's false beliefs about gender identity and sexuality. All doctors are sensitive with patients on these matters but that doesn't mean they have to agree or comply with a patient's view when that view is erroneous and maybe dangerous to a patient's health. Whether we like it or not our gender is either XX (female) or XY (male) and every cell in our body has this make up. If a person wants to dress as the opposite sex or take hormones that is up to them but it doesn't change their chromosomes and gender. I would urge the medical board and AHPRA to resist this push for so called political correctness which is totally unscientific,

Yours truly,

Dr. W. James Hare, MB,BS,MRCOA,DObstRCOG,DRANZCOG,FRACGP
