To whom it may concern,

I am writing to you as I am very concerned regarding the issue of the medical board of Australia's drafting of a revised code of conduct for medical practitioners in Australia. I refer in particular to page 7 paragraph 4, where it will effectively take away a doctor's ability to have a conscientious objection regarding morals and ethics that differ from others.

Many people are outraged in the way good doctors are being gagged to follow the ideology of a minority. I ask for you to please see the sense in what you are proposing in the revised code of conduct as well as the negative effects it will have on our society in the coming weeks, months and years to come.

Thankyou,

Victoria Karam
